

GAY AND COLORFUL: Martha Monius and Patrick Casey converse in "Aria da Capo," a one act farce by Edna St. Vincent Millay.

Masque And Rapier Presents Three Plays

By Bill Legg

Loyola College's Masque and Rapier Society will present three one-act plays tonight at 8:30 p.m. in Cohn Hall. This performance will decide by audience reaction which of these plays will be entered in the annual Jesuit One Act Play Contest for the Maryland District. The plays to be presented are: "Impromptu" by Tas Mosel, "Village Wooing" by George Bernard Shaw, and "Aria da Capo" by Edna St. Vincent Millay.

The first of the plays, "Impromptu," contains four characters in search of a play in one act. The actors are Nancy Monroe, Carol McKewen, Dave Crocco, and Ron Yakaitis. All four roles are equally strong. The play examines the emotions of actors when they "hold the mirror up to nature."

Goode & Slawski

"Village Wooing" is the story of a shy guide-book writer who is progressively snared by a devious and deceptively uneducated village girl. The play stars Carol Goode and Edward Slawski, both veteran Loyola players.

Starring in "Aria da Capo" are Martha Manius, Pat Casey, Rich Lawrence, Carroll Schempp, and Frank Moritz. The play is a Pirandella-type tragedy in verse form and is concerned with the true meaning of the dramatic medium which is typical of Miss Millay. It is didactic, but well disguised.

Final Contest

The contest, this year, will be held on February 23, at Georgetown and will feature entries from Wheeling College of West Virginia, the University of Scranton, St. Joseph's College of Philadelphia and Georgetown University.

Tickets may be purchased at the door for $1 per person or couple. All are invited to attend and bring their friends.

Labor Relations Lectures To Begin Here Feb. 20

On Tuesday, February 20, at 3 p.m., in the Chemistry Lecture Room, S210, Mr. Robert Hassel of McCormick and Company will lecture on economics; this talk is one of a series of lectures sponsored by the Economics Colloquium which began in September. This semester a series of guest specialists on various aspects of Labor-Management Relations will be featured. McCormick and Company has a unique and successful program for handling labor-management relations in a non-union setting. Begun in 1932, it is called, "Multiple Management."

This program widely known throughout the United States, has been described at length by Charles P. McCormick in his book, "The Power of People"

Mr. Hassel will show a twenty-five minute film based on this book, to be followed by a discussion and question period.

The purpose of the Colloquium is to present to the students expert and specialized knowledge on current topics of interest in labor-management relations and suggest possible fields of employment upon graduation.

Other speakers and topics presently scheduled for the series are: Mr. Stanley Ruttenberg, Director of the Research Department, AFL-CIO, "The Work of the AFL-CIO Research Department and Careers with the Labor Movement"; Mr. Davis Blanchard, Deputy Director, Bureau of Labor Standards, "The International Labor Organization"; Mr. Louis F. ## Rifle Competition To Determine Qualified Platoon

On February 28th, Company A of the First Battalion, ROTC Brigade, will initiate the rifle competition among the platoons of the Cadet Brigade in order to determine the best qualified platoon. These rifle matches will be held at the Loyola College fifty-foot smallbore range and will be conducted in accordance with current N.R.A. rules.

Drill Awards

The final standing in the match will be determined by platoon totals. Individual and platoon totals will be counted toward the annual Spring Drill Competition Awards.

Appropriate recognition will be given to the highest scoring platoon in each Battalion, and the platoon which attains the highest score within the Brigade will receive a suitable unit award.

Innovations

These rifle matches are but one of the many innovations which are now occurring within the Cadet Brigade. The main objective of such innovations is to provide greater numbers of students with an opportunity to participate actively in one of the many ROTC activities.

In Memoriam Fr. Herman Stork, S.J.

On February 6, Reverend Herman I. Stork, S.J. of Loyola College died at Mercy Hospital. Father was 84 years old and a member of the Society of Jesus for 62 years. He had planned to celebrate his golden jubilee as a priest in June of this year.

A graduate of Calvert Hall and Loyola College (1897), Father Stork entered the order in 1898, and was ordained in 1912 at Woodstock College, Md., by the late Cardinal Gibbons.

Father's many achievements include teaching at Fordham University, Boston College, Canisius College, and Georgetown University as a Professor of Chemistry. Father had been active in retreat movements. After serving as itinerant Retreat Master, he founded the Loyola House of Retreats at Morristown, N.J. He also founded the First Friday Luncheon Clubs of the New York-New Jersey area.

On behalf of the faculty and student body, we mourn the loss of Fr. Stork, a most distinguished and dedicated member of the Society of Jesus.

REV. HERMAN I. STORCK, S.J.

To The Team

In a dimly-lit room there were fourteen men who were either sitting down or disrobing. There was not a word spoken. This was our team last Saturday night. They had played a good, clean game with an effort that has not been surpassed by many other teams, but they lost the game.

In this game, defeat brought only glory to the team. The improvement of the team in the period of a month has been, to say the least, phenomenal. This improvement was definitely shown in the game. Indeed, this team, through their efforts, tirelessness, and will to win, has surprised even their most severe pre-season critics.

No one person has contributed more to this team than Nappy Doherty. It is through his excellent knowledge of the game of Basketball and his instilling of the desire to win in the members of the team that has made fools of the people who said that our Basketball Team would be lucky to win any games at all.

The students of Loyola can have nothing but pride for this team and its coach. It will be a long time before any Loyolans will forget some of the games which they witnessed during this season. The spirit of the student body has been increasing with every game, but the students should remember that there are three more games yet to be played before the Mason-Dixon Tournament. It is of necessity that the student body keep on supporting this team! Remember, no matter what the records show, our team and its coach are the best in the Mason-Dixon Conference. All Loyolans are proud of Nappy and the team!

Campus Question

What Can Loyola Offer Me?

Len Klishis-'64:

I want an education which will enable me to be a well-rounded educated man. My primary goal is to learn not to use my degree as a key to the business world. College is not the final step in my learning process. I hope to go on the graduate school some day.

* * *

Bob Fine-'65: I profoundly disagree with the above statement.

The Watchdog

There was such a large crowd at the gymnasium Saturday night, you would have thought that Billy Graham was giving a lecture or something.

Dan Doherty's dogs, "Shane" and "Erin," pups. So, instead of tripping over two dogs as you're going to class, you'll be tripping over four.

Winner of the Ordenez Award for this month is Albert Poklemba; he also wins the Rip Van Winkle award.

Steve Bogusky gets all steamed up because of all the nicknames that are pinned on him. Steve claims they call him "Pete the Pirate," because he wears his pea coat and a watch cap, the "Bear," because he has an enormous amount of hair, and "Paul Bunyan," because he wears a lumberjack shirt. He can't understand why.

Did you ever notice that when Jorge Ordenez doesn't know the answer to a question, his English becomes worse?

I'll bet Dr. Gumnick was surprised when he came out to his car and found that it was towed away. A passerby told him it was towed away. A passerby told him it was some guy in a black robe with tickets in his back pocket.

I propose that some sort of award be given to Anthony Rivezzo on his efforts to correct the diminishing population of the City of Baltimore. It looks like Tony is creating his own "Little Italy" on 33rd St. C.O'D.

Willy Lutz-'64:

A football team would be nice.

* * *

John Feller-'62:

Yes. Me, myself, and I.

* * *

John Campbell-'64:

If this is going to be printed, never mind.

* * *

Tom Newcombe-'62:

I already got what I want.

* * *

Tippy Cronin-'65:

A commission in the U.S. Army through the R.O.T.C. program. I think I'll succeed in this endeavor, since I have a natural knack for the military.

* * *

Stan Muehlberger-'63:

It offers me the opportunity after attending Loyola for three years, to tell any high school senior not to come to Loyola.

* * *

Bill Mislowsky-'63:

Loyola offers me a good, liberal education which will enable me to be considered for acceptance into Medical School, I hope.

* * *

Ernie Gagin-'85:

Loyola College can offer me a job which pays $50,000 per year. However, I'm fairly sure that it will not do so.

* * *

Joe Baggs-'69:

It can offer me a $50 per week job, and I'm sure that it will. Of course I will have to wait a few years before making that much money, but I am sure that when Jim Taylor leaves, I will be considered first.

The Greyhound Salutes...

John Baynes

If the old saying "Idleness is the devil's workshop" is true, then the devil will never find a workshop in the person of John Baynes.

John has been an active Loyolan since he was a freshman, when he was elected to the post of Secretary of his class. He also joined the Debating Society, where his gift to gab was given logic and refinement.

In sophomore year John added to his debating activities the role of a dramatist. Then in the middle of the year, after the famed "fraternity purge," John was elected to the post of Student Council Representative. It was also in his sophomore year that John caused controversy on campus with his "Harry" daily bulletins.

Big One

Junior year was a big one for John. He went into his major subject, Chemistry, and became a member of the Advanced R.O.T.C. and The Scabbard Blade. He was elected President of his class and served on the Student Council as the Chairman of the Elections Committee. He worked very hard for his class and gave them an excellent junior prom and many enjoyable class parties. He was also elected to Alpha Sigma

MR. JOHN W. BAYNES, JR.

Nu and Tau Kappa Alpha, the National Debating Fraternity.

The President

Now John was ready for his last year at Evergreen. After a very heated campaign, John was elected President of the Student Community, look of the 1960's; Dr. George T. Brown, Deputy Director, Bureau of Labor Standards, U.S. Department of Labor, "Current Issues in Collective Bargaining"; Other speakers will deal with personal and industrial relations for corporations, and representatives of the Maryland State government will speak on unemployment insurance, the work of the Maryland State Employment Service, and labor legislation in Maryland.

All interested students are welcome to attend.

View From Here

In the coming session of the Maryland Legislature, the possibility of changing the state's maximum penalty will be considered. The decision which the law-makers will make will be of great consequence to the citizen, to law enforcement officers, and to the criminal.

Does the fear of the gas chamber or the electric chair deter the potential criminal? Most law enforcement officers seem to feel that it does, and dismiss those who would trespass into their field as "do-gooders." However, there is a continuous argument between the "do-gooders" and those who know.

Pros and Cons

The widely held alternative to the death penalty is life imprisonment without parole. Some say that this is the better course because it lessens the chance of an innocent man being put to death, since the rare mistakes in justice come to the surface slowly. The less humanitarian view is that: "it costs too much."

Since most murders are crimes of passion, does the fear of capital punishment stop the potential murderer? It would seem that as a deterrent, this fear is not all that it is supposed to be. It must also be said that penal institutions have a more difficult job controlling the "lifer" than the prisoner with the hope of being set free.

Beware of Statistics

In the process of considering the abolishment of capital punishment, the legislators will be snowed under with statistics. Depending on how they are presented, statistics can make "the worse seem the better course." The Uniform Crime Report of the F.B.I. can be quite misleading if taken on its face value.

Detroit is a city in one of the nine states and two territories which have life imprisonment as their highest punishment. Baltimore is in a state which retains the death penalty. The population of Detroit is 3,762,360 and that of Baltimore is 17,271,023. Detroit had 188 murders with a rate of 5.1 per 100,000. Baltimore had 125 murders with a rate of 7.2 per 100,000. However, 537 forcible rapes were committed with a rate of 14.6 per 100,000. In Baltimore there were 146 forcible rapes with a rate of 8.5 per 100,000. The total crime rate per 100,000 was greater in Detroit. Lots of luck to the law-makers.

And by the way, if you are planning to commit a murder in Maryland, the chances of your being convicted and executed are 1 in 33.

Reviewing Stand

Every now and then, the Hollywood movie moguls come up with a particularly fine cast but seem somehow at a loss for the proper vehicle in which to feature them. "Light In The Piazza" is such a vehicle.

The plot of the movie concerns the love affair between a mentally retarded American girl (Yvette Mimieux) and a wealthy, young Italian (George Hamilton), and the anxiety which this affair causes the girl's mother (Olivia D'Havilland) and father (Barry Sullivan).

As far as the acting goes, Miss D'Havilland is excellent in her role as the anxious mother and George Hamilton surprises as a happy-go-lucky playboy. However, Miss Mimieux is slightly less than convincing as the girl who supposedly has the mind of a ten year old.

Despite this, the acting is generally good, especially in light of the much stretched, difficult, and horribly handled script.

the highest honor that can be bestowed upon a Loyolan by his fellow students. In this capacity, he is using all of his talents and energy to benefit the entire Student Community.

When asked of his opinion of Loyola College, John stated, "After four years at Loyola College, I feel it has much potential, and this potential is finally beginning to be used."

We of the Greyhound salute John Baynes—a true son of the Green and Grey. Good luck in the future!

Mountie Cagers Top Hounds, 77-65

Late Rally By Visitors Halts Final Hound Push

Last Saturday night the long-awaited visit of the Mt. Saint Mary's hoopsters materialized in a 77-65 defeat for Loyola. The game was certainly closer than the final score would seem to indicate. With a scant 1:49 left in the contest, the Hounds were still within striking distance, trailing by only 65-63. However, the Mounties had possession of the ball, and Loyola was forced to foul in an attempt to get it. The Mounts took complete advantage of the foul opportunity to put the game out of the Hounds' reach, finally winning by 77-65.

Top scorer of the night was the visitors' John O'Reilly, who notched 30 markers. O'Reilly was aided in the forecourt by Dick Tally, who hit for 17 points.

O'Donnell Tops Hounds

Charley O'Donnell led the Loyola attack with 15 points. Hewas abetted by Steve Bogusky and Don Wallenhorst, each of whom notched 14 points. Pat Flynn was the other Hound in double figures with 10 markers.

Towson Defeated

Last Tuesday night the Hounds traveled to Towson and rudely jolted their hosts by a 77-60 count. The teachers kept the game rather close in the early going until the Hounds started to open up, enabling coach Nap Doherty to substitute liberally. All fourteen Hounds who suited up for the game made the scoring column, top man being Steve Bogusky with 11 markers.

Bluejays Shot Down

On Wednesday night, the Hounds continued their winning streak by defeating Johns Hopkins 60-53. Loyola maintained a comfortable lead throughout the contest in recording its seventh Conference victory, as Charley O'Donnell and Pat Flynn scored 12 points apiece.

A. U. Next

The Hounds, now sporting a 7-2 Conference log, will visit American U. tomorrow night in D. C. On Wednesday night the Hounds will play host to Washington College in an 8 P.M. encounter.

'B' Cagers Win

On Tuesday February 7 the Boys Latin cagers visited Loyola College for a "B" team tilt. The Hounds were led by Freshman Mike McCarthy, who poured in 24 ducats, besides doing a fine job handling the rebounding chores. But the spark for the Hounds came from the power play of "Swish" Slawski and the speedy action of Tom Newcomb, who both split the cards for two points in their cage debuts. Gene Fusting led the visiting Boys Latin team. At half-time the Hounds left the court with an unimpressive 22-19 lead, but returned to extend their margin to 52 in the second half.

Well the Mount game is over. It's difficult not to be dissatisfied because the Hounds didn't win. However, we have nothing to be ashamed of because our team put on a fine all-round performance. No matter how trite the expression might sound, this was one game which really could have gone either way. The Hounds had no less than eleven layups and tapins which skimmed the rim but failed to drop in. If Loyola could have gotten possession of the ball at the time when they were trailing 65-63, the complexion of the contest could have been completely changed.

However there's no point in crying about the Mount game now. The Hound five still has some big contests coming up, beginning tomorrow night at American U. Maybe we'll get another crack at the Mounties in the Mason-Dixon Tournament.

Father-Son Dinner

Next Wednesday night at 6p.m., the annual Father and Son Dinner will be held in the Loyola College cafeteria. This event is open to all Loyola students, not just the athletes. After the dinner, at 8p.m. (the game has been moved up from 8:45), the Hound cagers will play host to Washington College. Fathers will be admitted to the game free of charge. Tickets for the dinner may be purchased at the Athletic Office or from any team captain.

FIRE CHIEF: Denny Homberg looks smartly before a recent match.

Freimuth Cracks Record; Grapplers Down Terrors

Last weekend Ken Freimuth toppled the eight-year-old scoring record of former Loyola great, Lou McComas. McComas set his record of 267 total points throughout the 1951-54 campaigns. In the William and Mary tilt last Friday, Freimuth, only a junior, had a double win--in individual medley and the breaststroke--to bring his point total to 271.25, thus eclipsing McComas, mark. With several more meets this year and one more full season to go, it seems likely that Freimuth will place his scoring total well out of the reach of future Loyola Nators.

Intramural Cage Play Underway

Play in the intramural basketball league began last week, and eight of the sixteen participating teams saw action. On Wednesday the seventh, the Bombers beat the Hawks 55 to 42 and the Foul Baegels tripped the Dukes 38 to 32. All seven Bomber players scored, and Conley, Schu, and Rivezzo hit for double figures as they proved too much for the Hawks, who were led by Lattanzi. Al Schroeder's 19 points were in a losing cause for the Dukes as Marshall, Kennedy, and Smuck led the Foul Baegels to their victory.

Last Friday, freshman teams made their initial appearance in Loyola basketball intramurals, and both of them rolled up 41 points in trouncing their opponents. The 1.5's Joe Kernan scored 18 points, as many as the whole Ungulates team got. He was backed up by the good play of Rossi, Kemmer, and Lawlor. In the final game the Porky Pigs beat the Sharks 41 to 27.

Bowling News

Despite the snow, the bowling league rolled its second set of games last Friday. Willie Nemeses, led by Charlie Nemecek, defeated the Boozers to move into first place when Tom Newcomb contributed a clutch spare to enable the HiFi's to defeat the Willie's Winners, the first round winner, 2 games to 1.

Adding to last week's glory, the Hounds met and vanquished three successive foes. On Tuesday, Feb. 6th, the Al Kubelius-led mermen downed Georgetown 64-31. Friday night, Feb. 9, William and Mary were the victims for a 64-30 rout, in which Marty Pilsch set both a team and poor record 2:22.6, in the 200yd. butterfly.

The following afternoon the Hounds turned back Randolph-Macon 64-28 in a solid team effort. Diver Vic Corbin came through all three meets with top honors in his specialty.

Grapplers Top W. Md.

Last Friday the Greyhound wrestlers entertained the Western Maryland Green Terrors and registered five pins in defeating them 28-15. Freshman Bishop Baker started things off by pinning his opponent in the 123 lb. class. In the next two matches McCarthy and Schlipp pinned their adversaries. Then Emmett decided his man to put the Hounds out in front 18 to 0.

However, Buchness was pinned in the 157 lb. class. Milligan put the Hounds back on the right track with a pin. Then Delpi and Eiswert were pinned by their opponents before Graham pinned his man in the heavyweight match.

Tomorrow the wrestlers will take on American U. in Washington and are hoping for a victory which will put them in 1st place in the league race.
